

INVITATION

an agency of the Department of Arts and Culture

The national Department of Arts and Culture (DAC), National Library of South Africa (NLSA) and the Council for Library and Information Services (NCLIS) Cordially invite you to attend the Library Policy Stakeholder Indaba

The Library and Information Services Policy is aimed to contribute to social and economic development with specific reference to the implementation of the National Development Plan (NDP). It will therefore solicit strong government support for the recognition of the essential role of libraries in socio economic development in South Africa. The Library and Information Services Policy will provide guidance for the development of the sector by redressing the inequalities of the past in terms of the provision of National library and information services and will strengthen public libraries as true community development partners

The Indaba is part of the stakeholder consultation process to develop the National Library and Information Services Policy
